
What People Are Saying about the TJC Implementation Toolkit

"Recognizing offenders need integration is key and that is just what this model helps us do more effectively"

– Sheriff Daron Hall, Davidson County, Tennessee

"A practical guide to addressing a pressing issue in jurisdictions large and small"

– Jim Flory, County Commissioner, Douglas County, Kansas

"With the current constraints on training and travel, a resource like this is just what my staff needs"

– Capt. Randy Demory, Kent County, Michigan, Sheriff's Department

"Attentive to the needs of both criminal justice and community-based organizations"

– Geoff Henderson, Senior Director, Phoenix House, Orange County, California

Toolkit Authors

- Jeff Mellow, John Jay College of Criminal Justice
- Gary Christensen, Corrections Partners, Inc.
- Kevin Warwick, Alternative Solutions Associates
- Janeen Buck Willison, Urban Institute

Transition from Jail to Community is a project of

National Institute of Corrections

The Urban Institute
Justice Policy Center

www.jailtransition.com

For more information

Jesse Jannetta
The Urban Institute
jjannetta@urban.org
www.urban.org

Kermit Humphries
National Institute of Corrections
khumphries@bop.gov www.nicic.gov/JailTransition

The Transition from Jail to Community Implementation Toolkit

AN ONLINE LEARNING TOOL TO IMPROVE
PUBLIC SAFETY &
REINTEGRATION
OUTCOMES

www.jailtransition.com/Toolkit

Goal of the Toolkit

The aim of this online learning resource is to provide practical information to help you implement the Transition from Jail to Community (TJC) model.

This resource has several purposes:

- Give an overview of the TJC initiative
- Help begin the process of implementing a reentry initiative in your community
- Foster an understanding of the key elements necessary to implement the TJC model
- Explain basic TJC concepts and terms
- Provide tools, sample documents, and examples to address common implementation challenges
- Serve as an advocacy tool for community stakeholders interested in gaining support for the model

Learn at Your Own Pace

We know how busy everyone is, and designed this toolkit so you can log onto www.jailtransition.com/Toolkit any time day or night to learn at a pace that meets your needs, at no cost to you.

Toolkit Content

This online resource is arranged in nine user-friendly modules based on the key components of the TJC model:

- Module 1: Getting Started
- Module 2: Leadership, Vision and Organizational Culture
- Module 3: Collaborative Structure and Joint Ownership
- Module 4: Data-Driven Understanding of Local Reentry
- Module 5: Targeted Intervention Strategies
- Module 6: Screening and Assessment
- Module 7: Transition Plan Development
- Module 8: Targeted Transition Interventions
- Module 9: Self-Evaluation and Sustainability

Toolkit Users

- Sheriffs
- Jail administrators
- Correction officers involved in transition efforts
- Jail treatment staff
- Community corrections staff
- Reentry coordinators
- Community providers
- Social service providers
- Probation officers
- Government officials

www.jailtransition.com/Toolkit

How to Use the Modules

While each module stands alone, they also build on one another. We recommend that you begin with Module 1: Getting Started and work your way through to Module 9: Self-Evaluation and Sustainability

Each module should take between 20 to 30 minutes to complete and follows the same format:

- Welcome
- Module Objectives
- The Transition from Jail to Community Model
- Content Sections
- Terms Used in the Field
- Conclusion
- Review Questions

Each module also includes templates, links, field notes, case studies, and other materials to help you expedite the TJC process in your community.
