

Using the Equity Resource Navigator to Advance Equity in Communities

#LiveAtUrban

Housekeeping

- Event is being recorded and the recording will be posted online afterward.
- Hide captions or adjust settings with the Live Transcript button.
- Speaker biographies and slides are available online at Urban.org.
- All participants are muted.
- Type your questions and comments into the Q&A box at any time.
- Engage with us online using #LiveAtUrban.
- Please complete the survey at the end of the event.

Why an Equity Resource Navigator?

- Support government staff from a broad range of localities at different points along their equity journeys
- Curate resources relevant to various government functions and offices
- Highlight existing tools, guides, and case studies from our talented colleagues (across Urban and various other organizations)

What is the Navigator?

We use qualitative and quantitative data to advance equity in our work. [\[More Information\]](#)

Strongly Agree

Agree

Neither Agree nor Disagree

Disagree

Strongly Disagree

We collect and disaggregate data based on race/ethnicity. [\[More Information\]](#)

Always

Equity Resource Navigator Survey

Thank you for filling out the Equity Resource Navigator survey!

Based on the information you provided, we recommend the following resources. Explore the resources below or print this page

Data Collection and Analysis

URBAN INSTITUTE

Considering Ethics and Empathy in Imputing Race and Ethnicity to Expand the Availability of Disaggregated Data

This blog post summarizes a body of research about how imputation—a method to disaggregate data by race and ethnicity in datasets that lack this information—can be used to highlight the experiences of those most impacted by structural racism. It can help practitioners understand how to incorporate equity into this method of disaggregation.

URBAN INSTITUTE

Data Walks: An Innovative Way to Share Data with Communities

This report introduces data walks, a way to share, co-analyze, and improve data collection and analysis with community members. It also includes an in-depth guide to creating a data walk, with example materials and questions that could be useful if you're looking to coordinate your community engagement and data collection efforts.

See pages 3–4 and 9–32.

What is the Navigator?

Browse our full resource list

Search

FILTER ✕

Filter by Resource type Filter by Focus area Filter by Source

SEARCH

89 results found

| Title | Resource type | Focus area | Source |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------|
| Advancing Equitable Government 2.0 | Blog Post | Internal Infrastructure | Urban Institute |
| Advancing Racial Equity and Transforming Government: A Resource Guide to Put Ideas into Action | Guide | Internal Infrastructure Staff Capacity Building Data Collection and Analysis | Government Alliance on Race and Equity |
| A Toolkit for Centering Racial Equity Throughout Data Integration (PDF) | Guide | Internal Infrastructure External Communications Data Collection and Analysis Community Engagement | Actionable Intelligence for Social Policy |

What are the Navigator's focus areas?

Internal Infrastructure
(required)

Staff Capacity
Building

External
Communications

Procurement and Contracting

Budgeting and Financial Management

Data Collection and Analysis

Community
Engagement

Policymaking

How can you use the Navigator?

- Scenario A: As a data analyst in a state agency, you'd like to make your work more reflective of lived experience, but you face constraints on data collection.
- Scenario B: You're the procurement director of a midsize locality and are looking for guidance on equitable procurement.
- Scenario C: Your agency is in the planning phase for a capital project. You're in charge of public outreach and are looking for innovative approaches to community engagement.

Live Demo of Navigator